BASIC INFORMATION

The route dedicated to the former innkeeper of the Tannheimer hütte offers demanding steep wall and crack climbing with continuous and homogeneously distributed difficulty.

APPROACH

From the hut on the hiking trail towards the "Nesselwängler Scharte". Where the path reaches the rock, it continues to climb for about 50 metres. Then leave the path to the left and walk over scree and scree to the entrances (approx. 40 min.).

DESCENT

It is usual to rope down the described routes. Those who prefer the foot descent will reach the summit in another 3-4 pitches (not set up, 3 to 4). From there descend via the east ridge to the Nesselwängler Scharte (1 to 2, uncomfortable in wet conditions). If you prefer to descend on foot, you will reach the summit in another 3-4 rope lengths (not equipped, 3 to 4). From there descend via the east ridge to the Nesselwängler Scharte (1 to 2, unpleasant when wet).
